

Gaslamp Restaurants Actually Worth Trying

There are a lot of places to eat in San Diego's busiest downtown neighborhood—here are the best

Any quick stroll through downtown's Gaslamp Quarter and one thing is obvious: it's awash in bars and restaurants. One could easily mistake this quantity for quality, however, locals know that much of what's on offer caters to fly-by-night tourists and conference-goers. Nestled within the hustle and bustle is plenty of quality, though — all that's needed is a little direction on where to go. Here are 18 places that are worth dining and drinking at in San Diego's Gaslamp Quarter.

Note: Map points are organized geographically—they are not ranked.

8. The Smoking Gun SD

555 Market St
San Diego, CA 92101

(619) 233-3836

Visit Website

The Smoking Gun has a stacked bar menu but is particularly worth a visit for its craft cocktails, which are easily some of the best in the area. The stacked menu has a selection of boilermakers (cocktails with beer) and to-share options, which come served in disco balls.

OPEN IN GOOGLE MAPS